USE IVORY SOAP IN THE STABLE.

THE IVORY SOAP is most excellent for washing galled spots, scratches, etc., etc., on horses, for it will cleanse without irritating, and the vegetable oils of which it is made are cooling and healing in effect.

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

"THE SILENT CITY."

Wonderful Photograph Taken of a Remarkable Mirage in Alaska.

During the past fifteen years Professor Richard D. Willoughby has been a character in Alaska well known among whites and natives. As one of the early settlers of old Fort Wrangel, in which his individuality was stamped among the sturdy miners who frequented the then important trading post, he has grown with the far off territory, and is today as much a part of Alaska's history as the totem poles are identified with the past lives of native chieftains. To him belongs the honor of being the first American who discovered gold within Alaska's ice bound peaks.

Professor Willoughby is favorably known from Fort Tongas to Mount St. Elias. He lived a third of a century along the coast, and his knowledge of Southeastern Alaska forms an Arctic encyclopedia of which he himself is an inseparable part. He left civilization so long ago that he does not remember of ever having seen a locomotive or a train of cars. He is a man of robust stature and about 60 years of age. As a miner he has no equal in the territory. He has exposed more locations of mineral wealth than any other three men, and is at present the owner of many promising claims. Among other things upon which he employs his spare moments is photography. While pursuing this scientific amusement Professor Willoughby frequently discovered remarkable mirages, and after four years of labor, amid dangers, privation and suffering, he accomplished for the civilized world a feat in photography heretofore considered problematic. It was on the longest day in June, 1888, that Willoughby's camera took within its grasp the reproduction of a city remote and, at first glance, thought to be within the recesses of another world. This remarkable photograph was taken at 9 o'clock at night in Glacier bay.

The mirage city was named by Professor Willoughby "The Silent City." The first two copies were sent to the government officials at Washington, D. C. The second was placed in the hands of the purser of an Alaskan steamer, and the third copy was sent to The Chronicle. It is 10 inches in length by 8 inches in width. The view, sometimes indistinct, is apparently taken from a public park or garden on a hill. In the foreground is a graveled walk, a stout fence, a rustic seat and a little child at play. Beyond the stone wall are the roofs of houses, with clumps of trees at the sides. In the distance are the half completed towers of a cathedral and several tall public buildings, while far away, enveloped in what appears to be a cloud like atmosphere, are tall smoke stacks and the towers of churches. The style of architecture is decidedly modern, the roofs are like those of England or the British provinces. The chimneys are made of tiles. Taken as a whole, it is a remarkable photograph, artistic to a large degree.

A correspondent of The Chronicle, writing from Juneau, Alaska, says of Willoughby and his wonderful photograph: "The professor is perfectly straight in his business transactions, and in my dealings with him I have found him the soul of honor. I have frequently seen mirages in Alaska, but never saw the photograph of one. Peterson Brothers, who are the only first class artists here, say the picture is a genuine production, and think it is of a city in Russia. San Francisco can probably locate the town."

A hundred people or more were shown the photograph yesterday. Some regarded the whole thing as a fraud, while others believed it the genuine photographic result of a mirage. One man related his experience with a mirage in Death Valley, in San Bernardino county. Going down the mountain side into the valley one sees a mirage representing a luxuriant garden with lakes, rivers, waterfalls and rich vegetation. Upon reaching the base of the mountain a barren, sandy desert is found in the valley.

The expert photographer employed at Tabor's art rooms examined the photograph critically and said: "I never heard of a city represented in a mirage before. I have seen islands and landscapes, but never a city. The photograph is the result of a badly exposed plate. I regard it as a trick. Such a result could be obtained in making a copy from a similar photograph by long exposure on a bright moonlight night, say an hour's exposure. But the figure of a human being, like those of the children in the foreground of this picture, would not show at all in the representation of a mirage. This photograph was taken by a rapid exposure, about two or three seconds in duration, either in a bad light or a poor exposure."

Mirages, as a general rule, represent scenes in the immediate vicinity, not over a few hundred miles away at the best. At first the city of Victoria was suggested, but an old resident of that city denied the likeness. Victoria is fully 900 miles from Glacier bay, where the alleged photograph was made. A score of persons ventured an opinion as to the location of "The Silent City." However, no one could be found who recognized the scene. At Tabor's and other photographic establishments it was thought the picture was that of a city in France or Germany. A dozen persons agreed that it resembled Montreal or Quebec, possibly Halifax. The agents of the Canadian Pacific, who are well acquainted with Canadian cities, stated that it could not be Toronto, Ottawa or Quebec. They were divided in opinion as to Halifax and Montreal. In the latter city there is a cathedral building resembling the one in the photograph. As a final result of yesterday's investigation Montreal appears to be the most likely city represented in the wonderful mirage picture of "The Silent City."—San Francisco Chronicle.

A Literary Hermit.

Delaware mountain, near Middletown, N. Y., boasts the possession of a literary hermit in the person of Judson Ellis. He lives in a one room hut built by his own hand, and scantily furnished. His sole companions are the goats, upon whose meat and milk he lives, and a large colony of cats. Mr. Ellis is 66 years of age, and in his early manhood was a reporter on The Tribune, then under Horace Greeley's editorship. He now employs his time in writing short stories for a newspaper syndicate.—Harper's Bazar.

Sharks Pass Through the Canal.

Before the Isthmus of Suez was pierced by the canal there were almost no sharks in the Mediterranean, the passage through the Straits of Gibraltar not being to their liking. Now, however, they come in by way of the canal, and in such numbers that in more than one watering place, and especially on the Adriatic, the sign has gone up, "Beware of Sharks."—Chicago Tribune.

Building in New York.

The records of the department of buildings for the first half of this year show that the total value of the buildings for which plans were submitted during that period is $42,000,000, against $25,358,000 in the same period of last year.—New York Sun.

NAVIGATING THE AIR.

Carl Myers Thinks It Will Some Day Be a Common Thing.

Carl Myers, of Frankfort, N. Y., the husband of Carlotta, the well known feminine aeronaut, and identified himself for the past twelve years with the problem of aerial navigation, who has been a guest at the Wayne hotel during the past few days, is what a theatrical man might call an aeronautic manager. He sometimes takes a little excursion up into the cloud country to see if the ethereal regions look natural and if things are all there, but not often. The ascensions which he himself has made number only forty-four. He has, however, a corps of star aeronauts employed, and contracts with county fairs and Fourth of July celebrations to furnish balloons and experienced air sailors at reasonable prices, with satisfactory spectacular features guaranteed. He has also given attention to the improvement of the balloon, and fine muslin manufactured from sea island cotton becomes, when treated by a process invented by him, a better material from which to manufacture air ships than silk, and much less expensive.

Anticipating the day when monopolistic individuals will control the aerial trunk lines of navigation as well as state legislatures and slower means of transportation lower down, he has continued investing in aerial property, occasionally laying by a balloon for a rainy day, until he is now the owner of twenty-seven gas air ships, besides a large number of hot air balloons. His gas balloons are manned by a crew of thirteen persons, and he has a much larger number than that to run his hot air contrivances.

The result of long study devoted to the subject and an extensive experience has been to make Mr. Myers a believer in the eventual practicability of navigating the upper air. He is now the proprietor of what is said to be the only balloon factory in the world, but he declares his conviction that such concerns will some day be as common as car shops or ship yards.

"I have just perfected," he said, "what I call an air velocipede, and shall give public exhibitions of its capabilities in the near future. It is provided with a reservoir containing sufficient hydrogen gas to support the weight of one individual. Then by means of a device operated by the hands and feet it can be propelled in any direction in the air desired. The experiments already made with the machine show its practicability, and it is easier to run it than it is to propel a bicycle on land.

"The same propelling apparatus on a larger scale could, of course, be used to navigate a great air ship, if a sufficiently powerful engine, not too heavy to overcome the lifting power of the gas, could be found to furnish the motive power. I am now experimenting, with encouraging results, on a very light, simple contrivance run by successive explosions of small quantities of dynamite."—Detroit Tribune.

A Desperate Case of Suicide.

The Palmer house has been very unfortunate in the number of tragic deaths. It will be just thirteen years ago to-morrow that one of the most sensational and carefully planned suicides in the history of self destruction occurred at the hotel. Frederick Addison Jeffrey was the victim. He was said to have been a member of the firm of Wyckhoff & Jeffrey, of Peoria. He occupied a parlor room on the eastern extension of the corridor. Early on the 5th of July his body was found suspended over the bath tub in his suite. The tub was filled with warm water and contained the charred fragments of combustibles ignited by Jeffrey just before killing himself. When discovered a stiletto was found plunged into his left breast, his throat was cut from ear to ear, a pistol hung by a cord within easy reach, beside it a pearl handled razor. His body hung by a stout cord fastened to the ceiling. He had saturated his clothing with kerosene so it would be easily ignited from the combustibles in the tub. He turned on the water as he wrote a letter, and when the rope he was hanging by would be burned through he would fall into the tub and burn to a crisp. The coroner's jury was unable to tell which killed him.—Chicago Times.

A Valued War Relic.

Angelo Pacha, color sergeant of Company G, First Michigan cavalry, under Capt. Alexander, was in the battle of Gettysburg. On the third day of the fight when the bugle call sounded he drank water out of his tin cup. He placed it in the crotch of an apple tree and joined his command and forgot all about it. Last week he went to the battlefield and bought the tree for $25, and had the tree cut up and carried to his home. The cup was completely imbedded in the crotch of the tree, and Angelo prizes the relic beyond anything that he owns. He was in the city yesterday and gave away parts of the apple tree to his old army comrades.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Arrest of French Bankers.

Considerable sensation was produced in Paris a week or two ago by the arrest of three well known bankers on the suspicion that they were concerned with the disappearance of a Swiss named Caudrian. The latter had been a servant of a Mme. Fessart, and at her death received her fortune of 200,000 francs. His riches drove him demented, and since he disappeared the bankers with whom he deposited his money have been arrested.—Chicago Times.

Encouraging Investigation.

The Astley-Cooper prize, of a value of $1,500, will be awarded in 1892. The question proposed is, "The Influence of Micro-organisms Upon Inflammation." The papers of those contesting for the prize should be written in English or accompanied by an English translation, and should be addressed before the 1st of January, 1892, to the Guy hospital, London. The prize will not be awarded to two or three working together.—Science.

The Shah's Gorgeous Dress.

His costumes have been something absolutely gorgeous. The gold belt around his waist is fastened with the biggest emerald in the world. He wears breastpins of enormous diamonds, besides which he has a tremendous algrette of brilliants in his hat and strings of precious stones scattered all over him. A man who understands such things saw him at the opera and said that he would be very glad to buy him as he stood for $1,000,000 and return him next day unharmed minus his clothes. His majesty wears, among other ornaments, the sash of the Order of the Garter, to the center of which he has fastened his enormous diamond called the Sea of Light. The man who had valued his majesty at $1,000,000 did not notice this at first, but when he did he admitted that he was willing to increase his price considerably.—London Cable.

Another Royal Engagement.

Prince Eugene, of Sweden, and the Princess Kalakani, of the Sandwich Islands, are said to be engaged. The prince lives at Paris, where he studies painting.—Chicago Tribune.

BRUIN IN THE SWITCH TOWER.

In Full Possession of Signals and Switches Near Philadelphia.

A wild bear in possession of the signal tower and running the trains on the New York division of the Pennsylvania railroad was the strange sight that nearly drove the rightful occupants of the tower into fits a few nights ago. The bear came from the Zoological garden, and the tower was that just back of the garden on the curve which the railroad makes at that place.

E. W. Rose, the telegraph operator in the tower, and Samuel Foster, an assistant yardmaster, were dozing in the tower about 3 o'clock, Sunday morning, when there came a soft pit-a-pat upon the stairs. They did not notice it, nor did they see a curly head that was poked in at the door and looked curiously around. Something in the inspection may have displeased him, for suddenly the men were awakened from their napping by a deep growl.

Before Foster, who was lying in a corner, could get up the bear had put his big paws around his neck and began to squeeze him affectionately. The terrified yardmaster shrieked, and the more he shrieked the more the bear hugged him. Foster was beginning to grow purple in the face, when Rose, who had recovered his presence of mind, started in with a broom stick to vanquish the bear. This drew his attention from Foster, and an instant later Rose was enjoying a vigorous hug. The hug lasted so long that Rose began to think his last day had come. The hug still continued, when the men suddenly remembered that the early morning express from New York was due and that the signal had not been set for it.

"Give the signal to No. 12," gasped Rose to his companion. Foster, who was a very badly frightened man, managed to crawl from his corner and see that the signal was properly set. Then he grasped the telegraph key, and while Bruin looked on in astonishment he startled every operator along the line by flashing over the wires to Broadstreet:

"For Heaven's sake send assistance to No. 3 office. Grizzly bear in possession of the tower. Has full control of signals and switches. Send six men with rifles."

As the telegraph operator sank back exhausted the bear left Foster and returned to his first victim. He moved slowly, and both men grasped the opportunity to jump over him and dash down stairs. As they turned the key in the lock of the door at the bottom they heard the bear thump against it. Rushing over to the Zoological garden from which place they supposed the strange visitor had escaped, they yelled loudly for assistance. Looking back on their way they saw bruin in the tower trying to move the switch levers.

A sleepy keeper was aroused after considerable effort, and the party laid siege to the tower. There was a pretty struggle between keeper and bear for a time, but the former came off victor. The bear was led back to his pit and put in irons. Foster has been off duty ever since, and Rose still starts nervously whenever he hears a footfall on the tower stairs.—Philadelphia Record.

Successful Ostrich Farming.

E. C. Canston, the proprietor of the Norwalk ostrich farm, was in town yesterday. Speaking of the birds, he said: "They are all doing well, and I have noticed a decided improvement in them year by year. Their feathers are also getting better, and this year are worth 20 per cent. more than what was given last season. Hitherto I have been shipping the crop to San Francisco, but now I am going to try Chicago, as better prices are offered in that direction."

"As far as ostrich farming in Southern California is concerned," he continued, "the days of experiments are over and the business is pronounced a success. The pioneers in the introduction of the birds had so much to contend with that at first it looked like running at a dead loss all the time, but now very handsome profits are being realized. A farm is to be started near Santa Barbara in the autumn by Mr. Lillingston. He has already purchased some of his birds and has brooded several chicks."

"What are ostriches worth nowadays?" asked the reporter.

A Costly Petticoat.

There are two events, apart from the exposition, about which all Paris is gossiping. Even the thousands of visitors know of and are interested in one of these which promises to be more than a nine days' wonder. This is the purchase of a petticoat, a bona fide petticoat, which was an indescribable combination of silk, flowers and lace, and for which was paid the fabulous sum of 15,000 francs. Rumor has it that it was purchased by an American Croesus, and Frenchmen are congratulating themselves that their countrywomen, however eccentric, never tempted them to commit such a piece of extravagance. The Croesus may have some trouble with the customs on his arrival in America, as the flowers and lace are put on this now celebrated petticoat in such profusion that a suspicion of smuggling may involuntarily find room in the mind of the matter-of-fact officer. But the purchaser will no doubt be able to prove his honesty of purpose in importing the article. This petticoat, which actually sold for the sum named above, is but an exaggerated example of those now worn by women of wealth and fashion.—Chicago Herald.

Cheapening Telegraphy.

There has lately been invented a new system, which, it is claimed, will make it cheaper to telegraph messages than to mail them. Dr. J. Harris Rogers, of Washington, D. C., is the inventor, and he claims that the world will be almost revolutionized by his discovery. The new system, Mr. Rogers says, reduces the English alphabet to ten elementary characters. The messages are prepared by means of a machine resembling a typewriter and manipulated in the same manner. With the use of ten keys, one for each character, any desirable message can be written. A test of the new apparatus was held in New York a few days ago, and a message of seventy-six words sent over in twenty-five seconds and printed on a tape in plain Roman characters. The inventor says that he can by this system make one wire do the work that ten do now by the system in vogue.

They Die with Their Boots On.

"The Alstons die with their boots on." That was the constant boast of the late Col. Bob Alston, famous throughout Georgia as an editor and politician. His grandfather and his father had died that way, and one day after he had made that boast he was shot to death. Not long after this one of his boys committed suicide in Washington, D. C. Today another son was jailed at Lithonia, Ga., with a charge of murder opposite his name. A young Scotchman named Wilson was killed in a Fourth of July brawl there, and Alston is charged with the crime. The prominence of Alston and his family makes the case of particular interest.—Atlanta Special.

ALL'S WELL THAT ENDS WELL.

A Second Marriage Ceremony Rounds Out a Kentucky Romance.

Society fairly thrilled with sensation yesterday afternoon when it became noised about that a marriage, of which there had been no previous announcement, and to which no invitations were issued, had taken place between a Louisville beau and a Pewee valley belle. The wedding was that of Mr. Jacob Frazee and Miss Minnie E. Rowley, the 16-year old granddaughter of Professor Rowley, the well known educator of Pewee valley. The ceremony of yesterday was their second, and a clandestine wedding, which occurred at Cincinnati about two weeks ago, is whereby hangs a tale, and is why the marriage yesterday was an impromptu affair.

Mr. Frazee has been spending his summers in Pewee for a long time, and his friends, and perhaps he himself, had many years ago given up all idea of his ever becoming a Benedict. He went one summer too often to Pewee, however, and found the little girl whom he had been wont to pet as a child a beautiful young woman, whose look and tones moved him as none had ever done before. Miss Rowley appears to have been as much a victim of Cupid as was he. Both knew that Grandpa Rowley would not listen to a proposal for marriage with what he considered a "mere school girl," and they didn't even ask him. On June 19 they boarded the early train to Cincinnati, and when they returned from the Queen City that evening they were man and wife. Both agreed to tell their secret to no one until next fall, when Mr. Frazee's affairs would be in a shape to permit of the announcement, and a trip to New York and possibly Europe. Miss Rowley, or rather Mrs. Frazee, went to her home, and Mr. Frazee came on to Louisville, and so matters rested until Monday, when Miss Rowley wrote a letter to her cousin, telling her in "strict confidence" of the affair, and left the letter open on her writing desk, where her grandmother found it a few minutes later.

Then there was a scene, and the youthful bride was taken to task in such a manner that she confessed all and left the house, coming to Louisville, where she stopped over night with the family of her uncle, Capt. H. N. Clifford, at 417 Oak street. That same afternoon Mr. Frazee started for Pewee valley, but at the depot was taken to task by a friend of his and those of Miss Rowley. He knew nothing of what she had told, and felt in duty bound to deny that such a marriage had taken place. He went as far as Anchorage en route to Pewee, but rumors of Grandpa Rowley abroad with a formidable looking gun grew so plentiful that he concluded to alight there and return by the next incoming train. This he did, and found that his bride had come before him, and was at Capt. Gifford's, and there he went to find what, if anything, she had revealed. The latter, he discovered, was everything, and he, of course, owned up like a little man.

He was willing to do anything to conciliate Professor Rowley, and friends of both agreed that another ceremony, at Capt. Gifford's residence, and that immediately, was the best thing to be done. It was necessary, however, to consult with the relatives at Pewee, and the ceremony was postponed until half past 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when the Rev. Charles E. Craik and a limited number of intimate friends were on hand. The couple a little later left on an afternoon train for the eastern summer resorts, all the happier for their trials and the added romance and surprise for their friends.

Professor and Mrs. Rowley were not present at the wedding, but it is said show marked symptoms of forgiving the pair, and it is believed there will be nothing left of their displeasure by the time their honeymoon is over.—Louisville Commercial.

An Old Vessel.

The schooner Polly, employed in the coasting trade between Penobscot ports and Massachusetts, is probably the oldest vessel in the American registry, having been built somewhere along the Penobscot in 1780. She is a little, stubbed, rollypoly craft, deep and square on the bilge, like a miniature old fashioned ship, and she can easily be distinguished among 100 coasters by a strong list to starboard, which nobody has ever been able to take out of her. She was originally built as a sloop, and carried a big squaresail, fore and aft topsail and jib. She measures but forty-three tons, but she was a great West Indiaman in her time, and carried any amount of sugar and rum into Boston.

During the war of 1812 the Polly was seized by the British, but she was recovered after that dispute was settled, having suffered little damage at the hands of the Johnnies. Last spring, while beating into Portland in a snow storm, she was run into by an outbound fisherman and a hole was stove in her port side. The crew (two men) jumped aboard the fisherman, and the Polly, slewed around by the force of the collision, filled away on the other tack and stood out to sea, heeling enough to starboard to bring the leak out of water. She was found next day by a tug all right and towed back to Portland. She has been new topped once or twice, is perfectly sound, and bids fair with good luck to live another century.—Boston Letter.

The Priggish German Emperor.

The day after the anniversary of the Emperor Frederick's death the Emperor William ordered that the name of Schloss Friedrich Kron, which had been given to it by the late emperor, should be changed to that of the Neue Palais, and a peal of bells in the chapel, which had been put there also by the Emperor Frederick, and which played an air of which he was very fond, should be removed and another one substituted for it. It is said that these acts have greatly annoyed the people of Berlin and have increased the unpopularity of the emperor. It is also said that the influence of the empress over the emperor, which was supposed not to exist, has become very strong, and that with his improved morality has come a sudden development of her power over him. This is viewed in Germany with great apprehension, as she is not at all a clever woman and very much in the hands of a narrow clique.—London World.

A Diploma Not the Only Requisite.

The nineteen young men who have been studying journalism at Cornell have been pronounced graduates after a year's study and turned out to make their reputation in the harder school of professional work. The ease with which they learned a business requiring the best efforts of a lifetime by those who do not get to Cornell will not be a bar to their advancement. In nearly any well managed office they can now get three or four days' work on trial, at a salary which will about pay their board, and if they show the skill of any ordinary reporter they may eventually work their way upward. If they don't they will go out the big front door more quickly than they came, diploma or no diploma. Sheepskin is all right in its place, but in the newspaper business it takes something more to make a mark.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

An Exiled Russian Grand Duke.

A good many society people who attended the grand ball at the Galt house, given in honor of the Russian Grand Duke Alexis, will be interested in the news from St. Petersburg that that handsome prince has been disgraced and exiled to Siberia. Alexis has been conducting a "flirtation" so open and shameless with the Countess Zenaide de Beauharnais, wife of the Duke de Leuchtenberg, that he has been deprived of his office of lord high admiral of the fleet and shorn of his other honors and exiled besides—at least the dispatch says so, though it looks incredible. The lovely countess has been given permission to leave the empire for an indefinite period.

When Alexis visited this country he was the recipient of a constant round of social attentions. He was in Louisville in 1872, I think, and the ball given in his honor was one of the most brilliant in the history of the city. The belles of Kentucky vied with each other in their efforts to secure the favor of this scion of royalty. Alexis made a good impression while in this country, and seemed to be very much of a gentleman, even if he was a descendant of an effete monarchy. A poor lady living in Henry county went insane on the subject of the prince's visit to Louisville, and imagined herself engaged to him. Her friends could never up to the day of her death relieve her of the hallucination that she was the promised bride of Alexis. She would frequently come to Louisville to look for him and prepare for the wedding. She went by the name of "the Princess Lucinda," and was of a good family.—Louisville Post.

A Jumbo Among Chimneys.

The tall chimneys erected by the Hargraves and Globe yarn mills now bid fair to be eclipsed by one being erected at the Fall River Iron Works company's mill. The experts on the heights of chimneys say that it will be the second highest in this country.

Instead of hoisting the brick and mortar on the outside, as is commonly done, an elevator is being built to run up the interior of the chimney. It is to be run by a hoisting engine by means of a wire cable. As the work progresses the guides for the elevator will be erected inside, and the overhead work moved upward. There will be 1,500,000 bricks used, and the total cost will not be far from $10,000.

The work on the foundation is completed. It contains 2,000 tons of Fall River granite, held together with 700 barrels of Portland cement. The bottom stone is 8 feet below tide water and the top one is 8 feet above. The total height of the chimney above the level of the ground will be 340 feet. The pressure on the foundation stones will be two and a half tons per square foot. At the base the stack will be square, but about 20 feet from the ground the corners will be sloped away, and the whole affair will rise in circular form into the air, and in general outline will seem like a gigantic baseball bat. Away up in the air the chimney will be crowned by a terra cotta cap, each section of which will be 5 feet thick. Other dimensions are: Diameter at base, 30 feet; diameter at head, 21 feet; diameter at smallest part, 15 feet 4 inches. The flue will be 11 feet in diameter.—Fall River Globe.

Dan Warner's Erudite Saurian.

In this paper a few weeks ago mention was made of an alligator about four feet long that had been captured by Dan Warner on the sidewalk in the most thickly settled portion of our city. Dan felt when he saw the young saurian that it possessed unusual intelligence and set about to teach him. It is perfectly wonderful the progress "John"—he has been christened John—has made. The bake shop is to him a revelation. He will, after the bread is taken from the pans, take the utensils and pile them in the corner as neatly as a boy could do it.

The first trick he learned was to stand on his tail and hind feet. It is pathetic to see him as he assumes the position and crosses his fore feet over his breast, awaiting the loaf which is to be given him as a reward for his skill.

He is fond of cider, and Schmidt & Warner have found it necessary to place the barrel beyond his reach, as he has half a dozen times turned the faucet.

The boys do not mind a single glass, but he does not seem to have learned the art of cutting it off, and he was not discovered until a gallon or more had been wasted.

The music by the band pleases him hugely, and he will lie in front of the band room every practice night until the last note is heard.

His harness will not be done for another week, but Dan is confident he will drive well.

Dan has given him a huge palmleaf fan, and he handles this with the utmost grace in keeping off the flies, which annoy him excessively.—Eustis Lake Region.

A Big Claim in Italy.

This is a curious story which comes to us from Italy. The heirs of King Joachim Murat, who, it will be remembered, was executed, have, it seems, demanded an indemnity of $10,000,000 for the estates belonging to their ancestor in the former kingdom of Naples, which were confiscated after the return of the Neapolitan Bourbons in 1815. Stranger still is the report that King Humbert's government has offered $6,000,000 in liquidation of the claim. This is one of the many levers which it is possible to work against the house of Savoy. The Neapolitan Liberals still retain a grateful remembrance of the reign of Murat, and it is also true that the Florentines had little to complain of in their last grand duke. Indeed, the tax payers of Florence, burdened as they now are by an immense municipal debt, may well look back to the grand ducal regime as to a golden age.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Tardy Downing Street.

It has recently been discovered in Downing street that steamer passage money on the coast of China includes food while on board; and instructions have accordingly been sent out that British officials, while traveling by steamer on duty, are to refund $2.50 for every day they are on board, in order to cover the cost of the food supplied them. The practice of supplying food to travelers by ocean steamers has existed since the invention of steamers; but the knowledge seems to have only just reached Downing street, with the consequences here stated.—Once a Week.

No Case of the Kind on Record.

During his trip to Norway the emperor of Germany was knocked down and slightly hurt by a mass of ice from a glacier. If he had been in this country he would not have escaped so easily, as here the mere shock of seeing a fall in ice is enough to kill the strongest man.—Baltimore American.

A Cossack Giantess.

The sensation of Berlin is just now a young Cossack giantess, who is being exhibited at the popular "Passage Panopticum." The girl, who is 11 years old, is nearly three yards high; she weighs twenty stone, and is still growing very rapidly. She is very pretty, with large dark eyes and a pleasant face, and in the national costume of the Don Cossacks, which consists of a red skirt, blue jacket, long apron, embroidered in gold, and necklaces of many colors, she captures everybody's heart. But since she is still chiefly interested in her dolls and toys, she cannot be said to return the sentiments of her admirers.—Pall Mall Gazette.

DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION

The Democratic State Convention will assemble in the Opera House, in the city of Harrisburg, on Wednesday, September 4, 1889, at 12 o'clock, M., for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the office of State Treasurer and transacting such other business as may properly come before it.

The rules of the Democratic Party of Pennsylvania provide that "the representation in the State Convention shall consist of representative delegates, one for each 1,000 Democratic votes cast at the last gubernatorial election, or for a fraction of 1,000 such votes amounting to 500 or more, in the respective representative districts; provided that each representative district shall have at least one delegate."

ELLIOTT P. KISNER,
CHAIRMAN DEMOCRATIC STATE COMMITTEE.
BEN. M. NEAD,
SECRETARY.

POSTMASTER CLARK REMOVED.

The Sunday newspapers brought the first announcement of the fact that Andrew B. Cathcart had been appointed postmaster in place of Geo. A. Clark, removed. Mr. Cathcart has had several years' experience in the post-office, and will make an efficient official, but this action is a flagrant violation of the rules of civil service reform, and makes the pretensions of the republican party a sham and a mockery. The removal of Mr. Clark before the expiration of his commission, which runs until next April, is a public political outrage, because he has given Bloomsburg the best post-office in size, in convenience, in appearance, in cleanliness, and in service that the town has ever had; because his removal was not wanted at this time by the business men, and was asked for only by a very few politicians who sought not the public good, but the gratification of their own personal ends in his removal; because he had received the assurance of those high in authority in the republican party, that he should be permitted to serve until the expiration of his commission, and had made his arrangements accordingly; and lastly because no cause for his removal is attempted to be assigned, and none can be given, except that it is the arbitrary act of the republican President entirely from partisan motives.

The republican party is the champion of civil service reform when it is out of power; when it is reinstated its pretensions are scattered to the winds, and it repudiates its own utterances in the most reckless manner.

How different the Democracy! Last February Mr. Scott, Democratic member from Erie, made the following remarks on the floor in Congress:

"Sir, I have made an official list of the number of Presidential post-offices in the State of Pennsylvania, and I desire to place the same on the records of Congress, so that they may not be overlooked or forgotten by the incoming administration or the gentlemen on the other side of the House who believe in civil-service reform and that a public office is a public trust. I find that there are in the State of Pennsylvania 191 Presidential post-offices, not one of which on the 4th of March, 1885, was held by a Democrat; that during the four years of the present administration the appointments made on commission expired have been 103; on resignations, 22; suspensions, 17; removals, 6; deaths, 3; offices becoming Presidential, 37, and that offices in which no change has been made were 3.

I point to this record with pride, and in a Republican State of 80,000 majority. Sir, it speaks louder than anything I can possibly say that the pledges of our party in connection with civil-service reform and also to carry on this Government on business methods have been faithfully kept.

In my own district there are seventeen Presidential post-offices, and during the entire term of this administration, with the exception of two cases where charges were preferred of irregularities in office, or unless by death, resignation or expiration of incumbent's term of office, not one change has been made.

This question of removals from office in my State, and I presume in others, has been carried to such an extent that where a postmaster had been appointed about one year prior to his confirmation on the 3d day of March, 1885, when we appealed to the Post-Office Department and to the President of the United States, claiming that the incumbent had not only held that office for ten years prior, but that he would hold it for five years in place of four if a change were not made, the conclusion of the Executive and Department was that the incumbent was entitled to the term of four years from the date he was confirmed.

Sir, when you take the number of confirmations and the number of appointments which were made in the closing of the executive session of March 3, 1885, what do you find? In my own district not less than four of the Presidential postmasters were confirmed between the 25th of February and the 3rd of March, 1885; and there are Republican postmasters in my district holding office to-day, appointed by President Arthur, whose terms of office have expired, and which a Democratic President knows it is useless to fill, for a Republican caucus of the Senate has given notice no more appointments are to be confirmed.

I desire to give these facts to the other side of the House, because I know how anxious many of them are to carry out civil-service reform. I ask the privilege to have the memorandum in my hand printed with my remarks, so that gentlemen on the other side of the House can refer to it in the future."

Gentlemen on the other side do not wish to refer to this record when their party is in. Civil-service reform might be defined to be a system whereby republicans can cling to office during a democratic administration. When the Democratic party again takes up the reins of government, it ought not to take long to determine what shall be done with republican office-holders.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, Aug. 5, 1889.

Mr. Blaine must not be as vindictive in punishing his enemies, large and small, when he gets an opportunity, as he has been credited with being, or else he has lately allowed that eternal vigilence which is the price of keeping track of your small fry enemies to go into innocuous desuetude. A man who was dismissed by General Black was reinstated in a clerkship in the Pension office a few days ago. He is one of the bitterest men against Blaine I have ever met. Just before the meeting of the last republican National Convention this man was for a short time the editor of a weekly republican newspaper in this city, and wrote and printed in editorial colums of his paper the following paragraph:

"Mr. Blaine has not said he would not accept it nominated. He just said he was not a candidate, and then winked to his henchmen who boost him up the tree. Isn't it strange Mr. Blaine's friends are such warm friends? Can you recall one of his ardent admirers who has not stolen something or who has not placed the republican party in an embarassing position at some time?

If Mr. Blaine allows the writer of that paragraph to remain in office I shall hereafter always defend him from the charge of being vindictive.

Mr. Harrison has been treated to a revival of his experience during the early days of his administration since his return to the White House Thursday. The office seekers have made a grand rush knowing that this would be their last chance until fall, and the President is ready to be pitied. He has appointed a large number of post masters, and three Louisiana men have captured good prizes—Ex-Gov. Warmouth, Collector at New Orleans, Mr. John F. Patty, (a negro), Naval officer at New Orleans, and the notorious J. R. G. Pitkin, Minister to Argentine Republic—and more appointments are expected before he leaves to morrow for Bar Harbor.

There is little excitement here on account of the seizing of the Canadian sealing vessel "Black Diamond" in Behring sea by the U. S. Revenue Cutter "Rush." No serious trouble is likely to grow out of this or any other similar seizure, while the idea of our claiming exclusive jurisdiction over Behring sea is not at all palatable to England, her commercial interests in the sealskin industry are too great to allow her to kick up a row. The fact of the matter is that England is just as much interested in having the illegal taking of seals stopped as is the United States, and the Canadians may howl all they please but her majesty's government will not get excited over this question. The law under which this seizure was made was passed by the last Congress as the result of an investigation made by a committe of the House. It was among the last bills signed by Mr. Cleveland.

Commissioner of Pensions Tanner has answered the charge of favoritism in making applications special by giving out a statement showing the entire number of such cases to have been nine hundred and fifty two. These applications were represented by 317 attorneys, the largest number represented by a single attorney being 97.

The hotel corridors filled up as if by magic the day the President returned from Deer Park. After to-morrow, when he starts for Bar Harbor they will resume their usual August quietness.

A delegation of Ohio republicans has told Mr. Harrison that unless he places certain patronage at their disposal they might as well give up all hope of carrying the legislature. It is not known what answer they received.

Ex-Postmaster General Hatton, editor of the Post, and Civil Service Commissioner Roosevelt have been indulging in a wordy warfare in the columns of of the newspapers.

The Interior department has sent a commissioner to France to learn as much as possible about the irrigating methods in use over there in order that the knowledge obtained may be used to devise some way of irrigating the enormous tracts of arid lands in west.

A. W. Layman, for years the Washington correspondent to the New York Sun, has purchased the Helena Montana Daily Independent. Mr. Layman will make the paper follow the Sun in its political course. He will support Hill for the next Presidential nomination.

Ex-Senator Kellog, of Louisiana, says Harrison by his appointments in that State has thrown away what little chance the republicans had of carrying the third Congressional district. He also intimates rather strongly that the Louisana delegation in next republican National Convention will oppose the re-nomination of Harrison. All of which is very interesting, but the fact should not be forgotten that Kellog has a very sore head.

The age limited for the appointment of letter carriers in non-civil service post-offices has been extended from thirty five to forty years.

More than forty democrats were discharged from the government printing office last week.

MENTAL TRASH FOR BOYS.

AN EXPERT TELLS HOW SENSATIONAL STORIES ARE PUT TOGETHER.

"The writing of fiction for the young has become an important branch in literature," said an old writer whose charming stories have tickled a generation of young people. "It seems simple enough, dosen't it, to draw a little on the imagination and spin out a lot of stuff about 'Jimmy the Safe Cracker' or 'Bob the Boy Detective,' but some of the best newspaper writers in this city have seized the story-writer's quill with a sort of holy enthusiasm—and have failed. One of them whose heartrending tale was published had the happiness of hearing himself called a 'chump' by a gamin critic who had just finished reading the effort.

"I guess this faculty of writing fiction must come voluntarily to a person. I have tried my hand at other branches of literature, and have immediately and with great unanimity been pronounced no good. Shortly after this rebuff a story, telling of the superhuman deeds of a young hero appeared, and ever since I have not been able to turn out manuscripts quickly enough for the publishers.

"On some days I can't, to save me, write a single line, while at other times I may worry through a long paragraph, but on reading it a second time I tear it up in disgust. Nothing remains but to wait for an 'inspiration.' This does not come from above, a gift from the gods as is vulgarly supposed, but is brought on by a knowledge of the fact that the publisher is waiting impatiently for the next chapter of my story. When once I get started the thoughts come almost too quickly.

"Do I ever correct my copy? Well, not much. I put the story together in my cranium and then spin it out. I sometimes read it a second time and change a word occasionally, then off she goes to the printer. We are not very particular, any way since, we are working for boodle, not for undying fame. If we were to follow the advice of Horace and lock up our manuscript for nine years, and then take it out and revise it. I am afraid that bootblacks, messenger boys and the young in general would do without intellectual food for some time. That, however, might not prove a serious blow to the community, for messages would then in all probabilitiy be delivered promptly, Why, I have seen a messenger boy, on whose fleetness of foot a fortune or probably a life depended, standing on a corner for half an hour intensely absorbed in one of my compositions. Quite flattering to me was it not?

"You think the increasing drain should exhaust my store-house of ideas do you? Let me inform you that it doubtles would, did I not learn something new every day. I always make a note of every thing strange I see or hear, and books and papers give me any number of ideas which I mould to suit my readers—not my readers exactly—but the publisher's readers. We write to please but one person, and he is that powerful individual who can take the story or return it with thanks.

"You want to know how we are paid? Well, none of us ever become millionaires, yet a person with ordinary talent can always make a good living at the business.

"I do all my writing in two or three days of the week and can make fifty or sixty dollars without exerting myself. The most money I ever received for a story was five hundred dollars for a little thing I finished in four days. It was for a celebrated comedian who, with my permission, erased my name from the title page and inserted his own.

I don't know how much he received for his name and my story.

"I think I am doing as much good for the young as many who make more pretensions. Most of my stories are founded on history, and probably im press truths on youthful minds more than some of the professors who affect to despise our profession so much."—N. Y. Telegram.

To the Committeemen and Voters of the Democratic Party of Col. Co.

Gentlemen:—The rules of our party prescribe that the delegate election shall be held upon the Saturday preceding the second Tuesday in Aug and the Convention to meet upon said second Tuesday

As there will be no vacancies to fill in any of the offices of the County the coming year and consequently it not being necessary to nominate any person, I deem it proper at this time to issue the following order, viz: That there will be no delegate election or convention the present year, and that under the construction of the rules the committemen and other appointed officers of the party will continue to hold their various positions another year.

The Rise of Democracy.

SENATOR RANDELL GIBSON PERCEIVES A SOCIAL REVOLUTION IN EUROPE.

I met the other evening at a dinner a United States senator, Randell Gibson, who was attached to the Madrid Legation in 1855, and saw a good deal when he was in American diplomacy of the different courts and capitals of Europe, he being of an observant habit. He comes from the South, fought on the side of secession, but the quarrel being made up, he is now for the Union against the whole world.

Well, he finds that since he was a young man a democratic revolution has taken place. All over Europe Continental policeman no longer brow beat the common people, who are better dressed, better behaved and happier looking. Aristocracy he sees everywhere declining, and he is satisfied that plutocracy will not be given a chance of taking its place. The common people have also an air of self-respect, which was certainly not the case thirty years ago.

England seems to him more affected by this evolution than any other country. Though the Senator came from a slave state, he used to be shocked at the abject severity of Englishmen born to toil. Being one day at a London cattle show, and noticing some fine sheep, he began to talk with the herder in charge. When he asked the name of the owner, a great aristocratic landlord, the man took off his hat in giving it. The demeanor of the classes towards the masses has no longer the supercilious condescension the Senator used to note.—London Truth.

MILLIONAIRES' INCOMES.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER ESTIMATED TO ENJOY $9,000,000 A YEAR.

A Cleveland, O., correspondent writes that Mr. H. M. Flagler said a short time ago that Mr. John D. Rockefeller's income had reached $9,000,000 a year. This startling statement from a man as well informed as Flagler regarding the affairs of the Standard Oil Company was the basis of a careful inquiry among brokers and well informed financiers as to the wealth of Clevelanders generally, and it can be safely said that there are no less than sixty three millionaires within the limits of the Forest City, to say nothing of the immense estates owned jointly by heirs.

Mr. Flagler's statement regarding Mr. Rockefeller's income could make the head of the Standard Oil Trust worth $150,000,000 on a 6 per cent basis. He said his own income was $3,000,000 a year, and estimated Colonel Oliver Payne's wealth at about $22,000,000.

But the Standard Oil people are not the only wealthy residents of Cleveland whose holdings are represented in seven and eight figures. Selah Chamberlain is worth $16,000,000, most of which is invested in the best railroad securities, and the S. V. Harkness estate, divided but a short time ago between Mrs. Anna M. Harkness and three sons, is said to have footed up $28,000,000. The combined wealth of Jeptha H. Wade and his grandson, Homer Wade who has already inherited an immense fortune, it is certainly not less than $7,000,000.—Wall Street News.

For over five years I was a constant sufferer with that most terrible and annoying disease, dyspepsia. After paying out hundreds of dollars, the only medicine I found that would do me any good was Sulphur Bitters. Six bottles cured me. Now I can eat well and am happy and hungry.—Editor.

GEORGE A. CLARK, P. M.

An exchange hits the nail on the head when it says: "When you hear a man sneering at local newspapers because they are not as big, cheap and newsy as the large city papers, you can safely bet that he does not squander wealth in assisting to make them better, and that generally the papers have done more for him than he has done for them. The man who can not see the benefit arising to a town from its newspapers hasn't the sense of an oyster, and he is of as much value to a town as a delinquent tax list."

J. S. Williams has opened an auction room in the 3rd floor of the COLUMBIAN building, for the sale of household goods and other personal property. Nearly every one has something about his premises that is too good to lose, and yet not enough to make it pay to have a sale. Arrangements can be made with Mr. Williams by which the articles are sold on commission, each article being numbered, the name of the owner not being made public. Goods will be disposed of at private sale, and also at auctions which will be held from time to time.

For several years the people along the Susquehanna river between Susquehanna and Red Rock have been interested in a creature which was said to inhabit the river, occasionally making predatory excursions to neighboring farms and killing a sheep or a calf. A few evenings ago it was discovered on the banks of the river eating a sheep, but the moment it was disturbed it jumped into the river. The men then constructed a raft and followed and killed it. It proved to be an alligator weighing 533 pounds. It is believed that some one in the neighborhood owned a pet alligator years ago, and that it escaped, the incident being entirely forgotten.—Nanticoke Sun.

There is no disguising the fact that while we have schools that we call free, while we furnish them in magnificent style, appoint for them an excellent staff of teachers and even dispense text books free of charge, our school buildings are virtually closed to the poor after they have reached the age of twelve. They must first eat before they can study, and in order to obtain the where-withal to live they must go to work. In the meantime a greater knowledge is wanted to-day by every person than ever before. The uneducated cannot compete with the educated, and the poor, cursed already by his poverty is still more disabled for the struggle of life by the ignorance in which he is kept, despite our free schools.—Boston Globe.

The Bradford county fair is to be held Sept. 24, 25 and 26.

A basket picnic excursion under the auspices of Ent Post, G. A. R. goes to Central Park on the B & S. this Friday morning, the 9th. Every arrangement has been made for the comfort of excursionists, and it is expected that this will be one of the largest picnics of the season. Gilmore's Band will furnish music. The prices of tickets is only 50 cents for adults and 35 cents for children, from here and less from points above, so that everybody can afford to go. Children under 8 years free, if with their parents. Baskets should be marked "Depot" or "Main street," so that they will be put off at the most convenient place, in the evening.

A very pleasant party was given by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel McKamey, at their residence at Espy, on Tuesday evening July 30th, for their niece Miss Mame Wilson, and daughter Sallie; among the many guests that were present was Miss Lizzie Freas, Miss Maine Morehead, Miss Eva Styles, Mr. Ray Hoyt, Mr. Wm. Lindville, Mr. J. Boyles, Mr. B. Kurtz, and Mr. E. Williams, all of Berwick, Miss Margarete Hicks of Bell-Bend, Miss Grace McKamey, Miss Sue Kressler, Miss Bertha Mallallieu, Miss Minnie Pohe, Miss Maggie Savage, Miss Bertha Angle, Mrs. J. M. Lehman Mr. Charles McKamey, Mr. H. S. Pohe, and Mr. H. W. Angle, all of Espy; the ushers were Master Fred Edgar and Earl Creveling. All report having a very pleasant time, and extend their thanks for same.

That's What's the Matter.

We editors are an abused set. We don't envy the minister, for he is even a worse abused man than we, yet he has the bulge on editors when it comes to marriages. It takes a minister two or three minutes to perform a marriage ceremony, remarks an exchange. He makes no charge, but is generally handed a five dollar bill—sometimes a ten—and gets a good supper besides. The list of presents is sent to the editor and it takes two or three hours hard work to put it in type. He makes no charge and gets no five dollars. Perhaps he gets some dry, broken pieces of cake and sells an extra copy of his paper for a nickel, but just as probable the parties are not even subscribers to his paper and beg a copy of their neighbor to cut the list of presents from to paste in a scrap book.

Missionary Work Among the Freedmen.

Mrs. Mary Little Grover has been at the residence of her nephew, Geo. P. Little, since the 22nd of June. She left her home in Jacksonville, Fla., June 15th, and made a short trip to Bloomsburg, Pa., to which place she expects to return in September, after visiting her brothers in Tunkhannock and Towanda. Mrs. Grover went South in 1880 as missionary among the Freedmen, under the auspices of the Women's Home Mission Board of the Baptist Church, and after spending one year at Richmond, Va., went to Jacksonville. In March last she dissolved her relations with the Board, and has since been prosecuting the same kind of labor independently. She is entitled to much credit for her self sacrificing spirit in trying to elevate a long enslaved race, and she has many friends who bid her God speed in her noble work. She will probably go to Tunkhannock in a few days, thence to Towanda, Bloomsburg and Florida. —[Montrose Republican].

Court Proceedings.

Court convened on Monday, August 5, pursuant to adjournment, all the judges on the bench.

Hall & Carpenter vs. Young & Reed. On motion of C. C. Evans, judgment for want of an appearance.

License of S. P. Hagenbuch for distillery in Fishingcreek transferred to Samuel Smith.

Ezra Stephens vs. Lucy Stephens, subpoena in divorce awarded.

R. R. Little appointed commissioner in estate of Elizabeth Hippensteel, lunatic.

S. D. Neyhard appointed viewer of a road in Main near G. W. Fisher's, in place of J. C. Brown who declined.

Sale ordered in estate of L. Z. Kahler, lunatic.

Writ of partition awarded in estate of William Hippensteel.

G. W. Utt vs. Emma B. Utt, subpoena in divorce awarded.

Hon. J. J. Metzgar of Williamsport was present in the afternoon and heard argument in a number of cases in which Judge Ikeler had been concerned as counsel. Among others, the Greenwood election district division was argued and submitted to him. He reserved his decision.

Court adjourned to Aug. 10, at 9 a. m.

Another Fraud.

NOW BEING WORKED UPON UNSUSPECTING FARMERS.

Rascals continue to scheme to defraud the farmers. The latest is the apple tree swindle which is thus described: The agent calls on the farmer to sell him apple trees. He does not ask any pay for them, but simply asks the farmer to plant them on shares. The agent of his company furnishes the trees, the farmer plants them and the company is to get one half of the fruit for twelve years from time of planting. The farmer binds himself, to keep the trees pruned, etc.; also, if he sells his farm at any time before the twelve years expire, he must pay for the trees at the rate of $1.50. For this he gives a bond of agreement to the agent as security of $500, and this bond is registered against the land without the farmer's knowledge. In the course of two or three months another gentleman comes along looking for a farm. He calls at the house and tells the farmer that his farm is just what he wants. He has cash to pay down and he offers him all or more than the farm is worth. They make a deal, but, of course, before he pays any money down, he wants to go and examine the registerr's office, to which place he and the farmer proceed. They find the bonds registered against the place for $500, and the farmer, rather than miss so good a sale, pays the $500 in order to get a clear title, he then looks around for his friend who has purchased the farm, but he is nowhere to be found. He only then learns that he has been swindled out of his money.

Tennis Match.

After many postponements on account of the weather, the tennis match with Milton took place on Friday, Aug 2nd. The visitors, about twelve in number, arrived on the morning train, and the games were called at 1 o'clock.

Messrs. W. Chamberlain and Johnston of Milton, played against Messrs. Fred Ikeler and Rishton of Bonita The score was 6-1, 6-8, 6-1, 7-5, the Miltonians being placed first.

The second contest in doubles was between Messrs. Chamberlain and Challen, of Milton and Messrs. Frank Ikeler and Leverett, of the home club, resulting in three successive victories for Milton, the score being the same in each set, viz: 6-1.

The rest of the time before the departure of the afternoon train was spent in gentlemen's singles between Messrs. Johnston and Rishton, and Messrs. Challen and Leverett, with Milton again victorious.

THE LATEST SLOT DEVICE.

AN AUTOMATIC MACHINE THAT TAKES AND FINISHES INSTANTANEOUS PHOTOGRAPHS.

"Drop a quarter in the slot and have your photograph taken."

A South Side photographer was standing by a handsome cabinet similar in appearance to the automatic weighing machines which confront one everywhere.

"A quarter! What's the matter with a nickel?"

"A nickel will do in three or four months when the novelty wears off. But until the Automatic Photographist is succeeded by a machine which will turn you out a house and lot a quarter only will work it. It is the latest thing out."

The reporter squared himself before a small closed opening in the cabinet opposite his face. He dropped a quarter in a slot lower down. Instantly a little metal door uncloased the opening, exposing the eye of a camera. There was a flash of light. The opening closed. And in a couple of minutes a finished photograph of himself fell on a salver before the reporter.

"How did you strike the idea of such an invention?"

"A Board of Trade man suggested it," said he. "He said there was big money in it. Eleven weeks ago I started at it, and here it is, patented, with a corporation behind it—all ready to take in the quarters. And it will take them in, for it is the only invention of the sort that appeals directly to the universal vanity of the public."

While apparently complicated, the mechanism of the machine turned out to be simple. It is run by an ordinary cell battery, the quarter completing the current. An instantaneous camera is supplied with the necessary light by a flash of magnesium and chloride of potash, dropped for each photograph on a pan above the opening and ignited by the heat of a platinum wire. The photograph is taken on a celluloid sheet about the size of a tintype. A set of rollers and a preparation of collodion in emulsion develop and dry the impression. The likeness issues much better finished than the ordinary tintype.

"The machine costs about $50," said the photographer. "The expense of operating them is next to nothing. We will soon have them in every hotel, drug store and saloon in the country."

"Are you going to utilize the invention for any other purpose than amusement?"

"Yes, for two serious purposes, I have a machine under construction which is to have the appearance of a clock and be placed at the railings of cashiers and tellers in banks."

"What for?"

"To enable them to take a photograph of any one who cashes a check in case they should want to identify him afterwards. While the man is before the railing the cashier or teller will press an electric button and the man's photograph will be taken in a tenth of a second. He will see nothing but a slight flash in the clock, and couldn't get away if he tried before the instrument has indelibly recorded his features."

"And the other purpose?"

"A similar machine will be made for use in police stations. The photographs of suspects and criminals may be obtained without their knowledge and the consequent distortion of features which characterizes so many of the forced photographs in the rogues gallery."—Chicago Tribune.

The State Normal School, Bloomsburg made a reduction in the rates a year ago which was followed by the largest attendance the school has ever had.

The dormitory was not large enough to accommodate the patrons. To meet this difficulty and to provide adequately for Manual Training a wing one hundred and three feet by forty has been begun.

One thousand dollars will be expended upon the kitchen, the fittings of which will be similar to those used in Girard College and will come from the same firm.

The trustees have added more than four acres to the grounds during the year, three of which include the beautiful grove on the north of the school; they have opened a well supplied reading-room, have added materially to the cabinet of specimens in Biology, and have fitted up a chemical laboratory which is in the hands of Prof. Chapin from Johns Hopkins University.

A military company has been organized and equipped with muskets, that the young men may obtain the great benefit of military training. Membership in the company is not compulsory. The drill officer, Prof. Chapin, holds a certificate from the United States Government.

The prayer-meetings, that have been sustained for years by the young men and young women separately, developed during the year into organizations of the Young Men's and the Young Women's Christian Associations.

The school has been made even more easily accessible by the completion of the Bloomsburg and Sullivan, and by the construction of the Rupert and Bloomsburg Railroads which latter is continuous of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad system.

Sixty-four students graduated on the 27th of June in the several courses of study.

The benefits of Normal School training are meeting with increasing appreciation whether the students are preparing for teaching, for college, or for business.

It is the purpose of the trustees that the instruction shall develop mental power, and the discipline shall develop the moral and social virtues.

Dr. Mary Allen, of Ithaca, N. Y. has been engaged for a course of six lectures on Physiology and Health, to begin the first day of the term.

Miss Clara E. Smith, of Northford, Conn., a graduate of Mt. Holyoke, and of the Yale Art School, has been secured as Preceptress and teacher of Drawing.

East Benton.

Judge Krickbaum has returned from the far West and gives a glowing account of that wonderful country.

Died last Monday week ago, of cholera infantum, Hattie, daughter of Richard and Fannie Smith, of Benton, aged about two years.

William Gideon, of Benton, died week ago last Tuesday, aged about 71 years. Both the above interments at Hamline.

William Ipher presented us with some hickory leaves, one of which measured 24 inches in length by 14 in width. Including stem it was about a yard long.

There was a picnic at Hamline last Saturday afternoon and a festival in the evening.

The oats harvest is progressing slowly, but the rains are frequent and abundant.

Such a luxurious growth of weeds and brush was never witnessed in our locality.

To say that the corn promises an abundant crop would be flattering that product beyond twice its capacity.

Mrs. Susan Keefer, of Wilkesbarre, is visiting her friends in this locality.

The dense forestry and timber tract on which Doc. Butt has located his saw mill, is fast disappearing.

Many tall oats may be seen in our travels, but it is useless to report the length in papers, as they look like grape vines. Should a correct report be made people wouldn't believe it.

Potatoes are rotting in some localities. It is thought by many that there will be a short crop.

News from Abroad.

LONDON, ENGLAND, July 25, '89.

EDITORS COLUMBIAN:—You have already learned of the safe and pleasant passage which we had from Boston to Liverpool in the Cunard Steamer "Pavonia." The voyage was an unusually long one, eleven days, mainly because the Captain, on the ground of safety, went far south of the regular course, to avoid the icebergs, which in mid-summer are to be dreaded. Fortunately they will have melted away and gone into the Gulf of St. Lawrence before the time of our anticipated return. Soon after reaching Liverpool I called on Mrs. Lott, and thus my first impressions were pleasantly associated with Bloomsburg friends and parishioners. Liverpool, as you know, is an active, busy city. It reminded me in some respects of Boston, Mass, and in others, of Chicago. From Liverpool we went to Chester, and had an immediate contrast between the comparatively modern city (Liverpool) and one of England's ancient towns. Chester is the only "walled town" in England, and it is interesting to walk on these old walls, whose foundations were laid by the Romans, and to see the quaint buildings and ancient landmarks.

After thoroughly doing the town, we went to the old Cathedral, having deferred our visit there until the hour for daily service. And thus in this ancient Cathedral, with feelings which may be imagined but not described, we joined for the first time after our voyage in the words of our blessed Liturgy. On both Sundays that we were at sea, the appointed service of the Church of England Prayer-Book had been read in the Saloon of the Steamer, but this day at Chester gave us the first opportunity of service in a Church. From Chester the ride to "Windermere" is through a very beautiful country, showing some large manufacturing places, flourishing farms and delightful scenery. We arrived at Windermere about 9 o'clock in the evening, having had the strange sight to American eyes of the sun well up above the horizon at 8½ p. m.

All the country about the English and Scottish Lakes is charming. The ride to Glasgow and Edinboro' has great variety. The first Sunday ashore was passed at Edinboro'—and not the thousands of miles between Scotland and Pennsylvania, nor the five hours difference in time between Edinboro' and Bloomsburg could cause me to forget the hour when the S. S. Teachers and Scholars were assembling for the usual morning session in "Bloom," nor prevent me, while worshipping in "St. Paul's Episcopal Church" in this foreign city, from having many a thought and prayer for the people of the dear St. Paul's at home.

I would like to tell you of the intervening days since Sunday. And of Melrose Abbey and the beautiful home of Sir Walter Scott at Abbottsford, where I spent several hours on the 23rd, and York Minster, the spacious Cathedral, 550 feet in length with transepts 240 feet in width, the great Eastern Window, 77 feet high and 33 feet wide, and the grand organ of five thousand pipes, of the University at Cambridge, with its time honored halls, its libraries, museums, and extensive grounds, not forgetting the "fast train" which brought us from Cambridge to London, running at the speed of a mile a minute. But if I enter upon this, my letter will be too long. And so, having just reached London, I dash off these lines to you, and perhaps may write again, either from England or on the Continent.

With all good wishes
Very truly Yours,
WM. C. LEVERETT.

Advertising patent medicine in the peculiar way in which the proprietor of Kemp's Balsam for Coughs and Colds does is indeed wonderful. He authorizes all druggists to give those who call for it a sample bottle Free, that they may try it before purchasing. The Large Bottles are 50c and $1.00. We certainly would advise a trial. It may save you from consumption.

"HARVEST HOME."

"The Harvest Home Re-Union and Anniversary" of Rev. A. Houtz's twenty years pastorate of the Orangeville charge was held in the Union church at that place Aug. 1st, 1889.

The grove was rendered impracticable in consequence of the recent rains. A special meeting of the Wyoming classis on the preceding day was doubtless the occasion of the presence of probably all the Reformed ministers of the classis. The following is the synopsis of the program:

A. M.

Singing. No. 557, in Hymnal.

Scripture reading and prayer by Rev. Engle.

Harvest sermon by Rev. Schoedler. Text "Give ye them to eat."

Music, "Swiftly Time is bearing us away." No. 38 and 39 in Sowing and Reaping.

Remarks on "Classical Assessment," by Rev. Peters, D. D.

Music, "What are ye doing?" No. 30 in Gates Ajar.

Offerings and voluntary by Prof. Kurzenknabe.

Doxology and benediction.

P. M.

Music, "The Crowning Day." No. 140 in Sowing and Reaping.

Prayer by Rev. Peters, D. D.

Reading of the history of the charge by Rev. Auman of Bloomsburg, from which we noted the following facts: Primitive Period, 1815-1865. In the year 1815 Rev. Deiffenbacher located at Bloomsburg and took charge of the interests of the scattered flocks of this and adjoining counties. Being then a new and sparsely settled county the range of his labors extended over a large area of territory, though he met with marked success. He resided in Bloomsburg until the year 1822 and continued to preach until 1824. As a result of his labors said territory developed later on into several well established and self supporting charges. In the year 1829 Rev. Daniel S. Tobias was ordained and installed pastor of the (then) Bloomsburg charge and served it until 1851. During his pastorate it was found necessary to institute a gradual transition from the German to the English language. To this end Rev. Henry Funk was called and on the 8th of December, 1844, he was ordained and installed at Orangeville as an assistant English pastor to Rev. Tobias, who, with his predecessor preached in German. He served the charge ten years when failing health compelled him to relinquish the calling he so dearly loved. Rev. W. Goodrich became his successor Aug. 1st. 1854, and served with signal success and resigned October 3rd, 1865. The "Primitive Period" was a span of time of half a century's length. Upon the latter's resignation the charge was divided into what are known as the Bloomsburg and Orangeville charges, leaving both weak and in a manner helpless. On the 1st of April 1866, Rev. F. B. Wilson was called to the pastorate of the Orangeville charge and served with the small salary of $500 until the time of his death, in May 1868. On the 1st of August 1869 the present incumbent was called, ordained and installed to the pastorate of the Orangeville charge which now consists of four prosperous congregations—St. James, Zions, Orangeville and Hidly.

The history of each congregation was then read in the above named order. Comment upon Rev. Houtz's pastorate is unnecessary, as twenty years speak for themselves. "Excelsior" is his motto and that will suffice. Rev. Isaac Shellhammer preached in German to the St. James people at that and other points, though from what date his pastoral labors began we did not learn, but closed his work here in the year 1858.

Music, "Bringing the Sheaves", No 32 in Sowing and Reaping.

Rendering of Toasts, Rev. J. A. Peters D. D. master of ceremonies.

1st Toast, Wyoming Classis. Responded to by Rev. F. K. Levan of Wilkesbarre.

The response was a history of Classis, which, a stripling of only two years, is now a youth of power, influence and ability.

Toast No. 2, Sacred relation between pastor and people.

Response by G. C. Meckel, Plymouth. Mr. Meckel illustrated this relation by the marriage relation. It was well timed and to the point.

Music, "Watching and Waiting." No. 12, in Sowing and Reaping.

Toast No. 3, Hidleberg College and Seminary, Tiffin, Ohio.

Response by Rev. E. D. Miller, Freeland Description of Rev. A. Houtz's college and seminary days while a student in that institution.

Toast No. 4, Music in the church, Sunday School and family.

Response by Prof. J. H. Kurzenknabe, of Harrisburg, author of "Gates Ajar," and "Sowing and Reaping." This response was emotional and pathetic, illustrating the finer sensibilities of the mind.

Music, "Music in Heaven." No. 40, in Gates Ajar.

Toast, No. 5. Women of the Reformed Church.

Responded to by Rev. D. E. Schoedler, Turbotville. Illustrating "Woman's work in the church" as highly co-operative with the ministry. St. Paul did not mean that she should not speak in the church, but should not make disturbance.

Toast No. 6, Pastor and wife.

Response by Rev. Engle, White Hall. This response illustrated the criticisms and abuses the pastor and his wife are subject to. The illustration was shown by a comparison of a game at foot-ball.

At this point of the proceedings an interesting episode occurred in the presentation of a handsome chair with an appropriate address by Rev. Yost of Milton, in behalf of the Wyoming Classis, expressing their appreciation of the fruits and labors of Rev. Houtz in said classis. The later was almost overcome, but made a wonderful response to the address of presentation.

Offering voluntary by Prof. Kurzenknabe.

Music, "Gathering Home." No. 158, in Sowing and Reaping.

Doxology and benediction.

J. C. W.

Do you suffer from scrofula, salt rheum, or other humors? Take Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood pruifier. 100 doses one dollar.

Criminal Recklessness.

Page Hawkins should be very thankful that he is not under arrest for a serious offense. Last Friday night while Friendship Fire Co. was parading up Market street, he fired a pistol, and the ball broke the glass in the window of Mrs. Wilson's house, very near Miss Laura Wilson's head. The ball was found on the floor, and was a 22 calibre. He followed up the procession, and kept up firing all along the line, but no policeman seems to have heard it. Such conduct ought to be met with severe punishment. Hawkins should be indicted for carrying a pistol, for firing it on the streets, and for malicious mischief. As he left town next day he has not been arrested, but probably will be if he returns.

The Order of American Mechanics will hold a basket picnic at Central Park on the B. & S. on Thursday, August 15, in which the employees of the Car Shops, Harman & Hassert's, Hess Mfg Co., Mears' Washer Works, Silk Mill, Thomas Gorrey, contractor, and members of various secret organizations in town and vicinity, will participate. Two or more bands and a good orchestra will furnish music. Tickets can be procured at B. & S. stations, Lockard's Store, McKelvy's Drug Store, Hess' Shoe Store, Hicks' Store, and Harman & Hassert's office. Trains will leave Bloomsburg at 7, 8 and 8:40 a. m. returning, leave Central at 4:45, 5:10 and 7:00 p. m.

About two weeks ago, during the heavy rains, the Pennsylvania Company canal broke about three miles above Shickshinny, making a gap of about seventy-five feet wide along the bank. A force of about 300 men was put to work and on Saturday the water was let in. It had been running but a few hours when the canal broke at the same place, making a breach of about forty feet. Before the water was turned in Superintendent Owen predicted that the break would occur, because the workmanship was not substantial, and his predictions were soon verified. The loss is about $4,000. The large force of men was again put to work to repair it.

And Still Another Fraud.

Another fraud needs exposing, and is found where you would least expect it—in a cemetery. A man is traveling about the country soliciting orders for cleaning up grave stones in the cemetery, that have become discolored with dirt or mildew. He does the work easily with diluted acid, but the polished surface of marble headstones is ruined by the acid. Look out for him. Granite monuments might not be injured, but the use of nitric or sulphuric acid on marble ought not to be tolerated for a moment.

FIFTEEN MILLION PEOPLE.

A CONSERVATIVE ESTIMATE OF THE NUMBER OF VISITORS TO THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Fifteen million visitors to the World's fair in 1892 sounds like an exaggerated estimate, but there is no reason that it should be regarded as over sanguine. All national and international expositions, beginning with the great Crystal Palace show in London in 1851 and ending with the Exposition Universalle now going on in Paris, have attracted more sight-seers than was originally contemplated. The projectors of the great show in the English metropolis thirty eight years ago did not anticipate then the attendance would exceed three million at the utmost, but it was almost double that. In 1855 there was a monster exhibition in Paris, and although a large part of the show consisted of native products, 5,000,000, persons were in attendance. Then came the second London show in 1861, which drew 6,200,000 persons, and after that the famous Parisian Exposition of 1867, which was visited by more than ten million spectators. The exhibition in Vienna in 1873 drew 7,254,000, when the most sanguine estimates placed the expected attendance at 6,000,000.

The largest exposition of any description ever held in the United States was that in Philadelphia in 1876, to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the declaration of American independence. Ten million visitors passed through the turnstiles between the months of May and November. It is believed this number will be largely exceeded by the number of visitors to the French Exposition now in progress, and conservative calculators put the whole probable number at 12,000,000.

It has been the experience of those who have kept track of these statistics that the exhibitions of the progress of nations, when conducted on the broad educational grounds, invariably attract the attention and support of the masses, and that each succeeding exhibition excels its predecessor in point of attendance.

Although the plans for the great World's Fair three years hence are yet in embryo the exhibition statisticians have already begun work. The ultra enthusiastic do not hesitate to place the attendance at from 17,000,000 to 19,000,000, but the more conservative fix the probable number at 15,000,000 or thereabouts, based on the history of similar projects in different parts of the world since the year 1850. Of this vast throng it is claimed that not less than 10,000,000 will come from towns and cities outside of New York State, and that the wonderful progress made in American affairs will attract an unusually large number from foreign countries.

Certain it is that a preparation looking to a realization of these hopes was begun under most favorable auspices. The New York Chamber of Commerce rarely sets the seal of its commendation on any undertaking unless the undertaking promises well-defined results, and the unanimity with which the members of the Chamber acted Thursday is pointed to as an undoubted harbinger of complete success. The meeting at the Mayor's office, following immediately after and participated in by a majority of those who had taken part in the commercial conference, was of such a nature as to dispel any doubt of the earnestness of those who took part, notwithstanding the unlooked for formation of a permanent organization, which may have to be reformed at some future meeting. Of the vast number of business men who were questioned previous to the two meetings only one firm expressed indifference, and that was the house of Brown Brothers & Co., the bankers. They refused to sign a petition which had been presented by a committee on the ground that the firm was not interested in the fair, or whether it was held in New York or not. With this one exception the sentiment from the Battery to the Bronx was unanimous.

The tobacco men of New York and vicinity are among the first to show their appreciation of the value of the proposed exhibition to all lines of trade. They have got up an indorsement which reads as follows:

We, the undersigned, merchants connected with the tobacco trade and all its allied interests, most heartily indorse the efforts now being made for the holding of an international exposition in the city of New York in 1892.

Every tobacco-house in the city of any prominence whatever has attached its name to this circular. The names were gathered in one day by sending duplicate sheets from one firm to another, and the greatest interest and enthusiasm was displayed by the tobacco men themselves in obtaining the signatures of their brethren. The list is now in the hands of the Mayor, and represents an aggregate capital of $60,000,000. The same spirit is being exhibited by dry-goods men, the hardware trade, the wall-paper dealers, the crockery and glass-ware trade, the wholesale shoe trade, the furniture trade and the builders and contractors.

A Remarkable Cyclone Relic.

E. S. Wilson, a blacksmith of Ozark, Mo., has a relic of the Marshfield cyclone which occurred on Sunday, April 18, 1880, that is a very remarkable curiosity. The witness of one of the freaks of the great storm is a black quart bottle, bent by some mysterious force into an elipse without a crack or break in the glass that the closest scrutiny can discover. The neck of the bottle actually touches the edge of the bottom, and the fact that the glass was not broken in any way by the strange force of the storm is shown by the test of its holding water or any other fluid. By gradually turning the bottle as the water is poured in, it can be nearly filled to its full capacity, so as to show the perfect soundness of the material. This bottle was found by Mr. Wilson the day after the Marshfield disaster and was examined by Prof. Tice, who soon came to the scene of destruction to study the phenomena of the cyclone from a scientific standpoint. The famous meteorologist attributed the bending of the bottle to the force of electricity. The bottle was found in the wreck of one of the Marshfield drug stores. Mr. Wilson has been offered extravagant prices for the curiosity, but declines to part with the relic.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

An Important Element

Of the success of Hood's Sarsaparilla is the fact that every purchaser receives a fair equivalent for his money. The familiar headline "100 Doses One Dollar," stolen by imitators, is original with and true only of Hood's Sarsaparilla. This can easily be proven by any one who desires to test the matter. For real economy, buy only Hood's Sarsaparilla. Sold by all druggists.

The Profile on the Standard Dollars That of a Philadelphia Lady.

Each scholar in the Philadelphia Kindergarten Training-school who owns a Bland silver dollar possesses a first-rate picture of his or her teacher, says the Philpdelphia Record. The confirmation by the Board of Education of the selection of Miss Anna M. Williams as instructor of philosophy and methods of kindergarten training is the latest laurel in the already famebestrewn path of that lady, whose classic features have been stamped on millions of silver discs. Ten years ago Miss Williams suddenly became famous when the interesting announcement was made that her face was the original of the Goddess of Liberty on that much abused, much admired and equally as much disliked Bland dollar.

The discovery was due to the efforts of a reporter who worked eighteen months in tracing out the original of the goddess. The friends of Miss Williams placed every conceivable obstruction in the way, but unsuccessfully. The story of Miss Williams, connection with the stamp upon the coin is interesting. In the early part of 1876 the Treasury Department secured through communication with the Royal Mint of England the services of a clever young designer and engraver named George Morgan. Upon his arrival in this country the young engraver was located at the Philadelphia mint, and was assigned the task of making a design for a new silver dollar.

After months of patient work he completed his design for the reverse side of the coin, on which he represented the American eagle. His attention was then turned to the other side and the first inclination was to place on it a fanciful head of the Goddess of Liberty. But the young designer was too much of a realist to be pleased with a mere work of fancy. Finally he determined that the head should be the representation of some American girl, and forthwith diligently searched for his beauteous ideal. Through a friend who had spoken to him of the classic profile of Miss Williams, face he sought and obtained her acquaintance. Miss Williams was with difficulty induced by her friends to pose before an artist, and after five sittings the design was completed. The young designer declared that the profile was the most perfect he had ever seen in England or this country. Miss Williams, around whom this web of romance and fame clings is a very estimable and modest lady. She resides with her mother and aunt at 1023 Spring Garden street. She is still a pretty blonde, with pearl-like complexion, is slightly below the average height, and possesses a graceful, aplomb figure.

A Strange Libel Suit

REMARKABLE TRIAL AT BERLIN IN WHICH A GOAT IS A WITNESS.

A monster trial has just been begun at Berlin which bids fair to monoplize the attention of the tribunal entrusted with the investigation of the case for several months to come. The defendants are fifty-three in number, the indictment embraces 114 separate counts, subpoenas have been served on no less than 220 witnesses. Prominent among the latter is a venerablelooking goat of mature age, which notwithstanding the fact that he belongs to the sterner sex and is unmistakably masculine in appearance rejoices in the feminine and altogether inappropriate name of "Liese"—short for Elizbath. "Liese is, indeed, the most important personage in the case and the primary origin of the whole trouble. A few weeks ago the billygoat in question, which is owned by a woman named Frau Mueller, escaped from the latter and strayed into the courtyard of one of those huge tenement-houses which line the street leading to the Moabit Prison. The janitor of the house, a stout, burley dame of quick temper and sharp tongue, was just in the act of making a frantic effort to induce the trespasser to leave the premises when Frau Mueller happened to come along and to catch sight of her beloved; if somewhat erratic, quadrupted. With the object of putting an end to the latter's intrusion, she made her way into the courtyard and, addressing the goat, exlaimed in shrill and angry tones:

"Come, clear out of here, du dumme Liese!" ("you fool of a Liese!")

Unfortunately, however, the name of the janitor happened to be identical with that of the goat, and she immediately took it for granted that the epithet "Du dumme Liese" was addressed to herself. Already exasperated by the obstinate refusal of the long beard ed animal to yield to the persuasion of her broomstick, she at once turned on Frau Mueller, and apostrophized her language more forcibly than polite. Frau Mueller responded in an equally vigorous manner, and in the space of a few seconds a very pretty quarrel had ensued. Of course, the noise attracted not only all the tenants of the house, but also the people from the street, who speedily filled the courtyard, and took sides in the matter, the goat being the only one present to maintain anything like a decorous silence. The most libelous and insulting epithets were freely bandied about until at length a squad of police en appeared on the scene and invited the entire crowd, including the goat to accompany them to the station-house. After considerable discussion summonses were granted against some sixty of those present for utterance of "criminally libelous and honor affecting statements and insults." The magistrate before whom the case was brought on the following day, after a patient hearing, gave it up in despair of benig able to come to any satisfactory settlement of the matter and committed the defendants for trial by jury at the Quarterly Sessions. No less than seventy lawyers are engaged in the case and the trial will involve considerable expense, not only to those concerned, but also to the Government. Much curiosity is expressed as to the part which the billygoat is to take in the great trial. But it is expected that he will be called on the stand to give testimony of a rebutting nature.

Grapes for Health.

The use of ripe grapes for dinner is of incalculable benefit to the human system, and the Pure Grape Juice, preserved, is invaluable for weakly persons and invalids. The Port Grape Wine and Grape Juice preserved from his own vineyards, by Alfred Speer of New Jersey, is pronounced by the leading medical experts to be the most reliable to be obtained. To use the Unfermented Grape Juice is just like eating the ripe sweet grape.

The people of England are said to be very enthusiastic over the morriage of the Prince of Wales's oldest daughter to an Englisman.

JOHN SULLIVAN CAGED.

THE CHAMPION LOCKED UP BY ORDER OF GOVERNOR HILL.

John L. Sullivan was arrested early in the evening on a requisition from Governor Lowry, of Mississippi, in New York, July 31.

Inspector Byrnes and Detective Sergeant Thomas Adams went up to the Vanderbuilt Hotel armed with an order from Governor Hill and told the big fellow he was wanted. The officers were received cordially by the champion and he willingly consented to go with them. He was taken direct to police headquarters in a coach and was ushered into the museum with Tommy Adams and L. F. Childs.

The agent for Governor Lowry has been in New York for two or three days laying wires for the arrest of Sullivan. His presence here was kept very quiet. He went up to Albany and had a conference with Governor Hill and next he came back to the city. He carried to Inspector Byrnes instructions from the Governor to place the big fellow under arres that he might be tried on extradition proceedings.

HOW THE ARREST WAS MADE.

It was learned that the fighter was still stopping at the Vanderbuilt Hotel, Lexington avenue and Forty second street, and that he would be home at 9 o'clock. The Inspector and Detective Adams went to the hotel at 9:30 oclock. After assuring themselves that Sullivan was in his room Inspector Byrnes knocked on the door of Sullivan's room and in response the champion arose and opened the door. He recognized the chief Inspector and putting out his hand said; "Hello Inspector, I suppose you want me. I had heard that there was a requisition for me and was just getting ready to go down to your office and give myself up"

Billy Muldoon and Charlie Johnson, who were in the room, came forward and shook hands with the Inspector and they said Sullivan had made no effort to escape, although he had been informed several hours earlier that he was to be arrested.

"Tommy Adams is down stairs and he has orders from Governor Hill to place you under arrest. You had better come down," said Byrnes.

WANTS THE MATTER SETTLED.

"All right" said Sullivan. "If I have violated the law I am willing to stand for it. I am tired of being chased around and I might as well take the consequences now as at any other time."

Sullivan put on his hat and announced his readiness to proceed. He walked down to the street door and there was greeted by over a hundred people who had gathered.

The news of the arrest had spread quickly after Inspector Byrnes went up stairs, and from the Grand Central Depot, the Grand Union Hotel and the street corners people flocked to the Vanderbilt. The crowd was quiet but pushed so closely about the officer and prisoner that it was impossible to proceed. Inspector Byrnes overcame the difficulty by calling a coach, in which he, Adams and Sullivan seated themselves. The horses were whipped up and those of the crowd who followed the vehicle were soon outdistanced.

Who the People in Massachusetts Are.

The people of Massachusetts were formerly a homogeneous people and almost purely English.

"About one in a hundred could say that his family came from Scotland or the north of Ireland; one in 500 may have been the grandchild of a Huguenot. Extreme poverty was almost unknown, and there were few who could not read and write. Upon religious and political questions these people thought very much alike. Except upon the seacoast nearly all the people lived upon farms; but all along the coast were many who lived by fishing and by building ships, and in the towns lived many merchants grown rich by foreign trade"

From this picture of New England of a century ago, look upon this of the Massachusetts of the present decade. In place of a homogeneous people of common faith and common speech and common love for the commonwealth and reverence for its traditions, in the factory towns and commercial cities dwell great populations diverse in creed and in tongue, unstrained to liberty and a Republican form of government, and with no respect for the ashes of the dead from which has sprung our fatherland. Out of a population of 1,942,141, according to the census of 1885, the foreign born number 526,867, not including such children of alien parentage as have been born in the United States. There are 122,263 illiterate persons 10 years of age and over, of whom 88.63 per cent were born in this State. The foreign born represent one fifth of the people employed in agriculture, one-half of those employed in the fisheries, two-fifths of those employed in manufactures and two-thirds of those employed in mining and as laborers.

RHEUMATISM
For More than Twenty-five Years.—A Complete Recovery.—The Means Used.

I had Inflammatory Rheumatism. For nearly a year I had to be fed and turned in bed. I could find no relief. My stomach was ruined and cut to pieces with powerful medicines taken to effect a cure so that I was compelled to live on bread and water. I suffered for twenty-five years in this way. I was induced to try Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, made at Rondout, N. Y., and thanks to this medicine. Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is my best friend. With it I am enabled to enjoy a good night's rest. Also food, such as meat and pastry, which I have been deprived of for years, showing that the Favorite Remedy has no equal for the cure of Indigestion and Dyspepsia as well. If any should doubt this statement I will send the ready proof at once.—Garrett Lansing, Troy, N. Y.

It is my pleasure and absolute duty toward those who are struggling for very life against the deadly to add my testimony to the already weighty evidence of the wonderful efficacy of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. My wife was a hopeless case, abandoned by the physicians. Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy was resorted to; not because any hope was placed in it, but because nothing else remained. All means and medicines had been tested without avail. The effect was little short of a miracle. At the second bottle she had regained strength, and continuing the treatment has fully recovered.—Jay Sweet, Albany, N. Y.

ALCHEMISTS DREAMED OF IT.

DR. HAMMOND CONFIRMS DR. BROWN-SEQUARD'S DISCOVERY OF THE ELIXIR OF LIFE.

Dr. William A. Hammond, of Washington, is experimenting with the elixir of life recently discovered by Dr. Brown-Sequard, of Paris, and thus far he says the results are fully equal to the promises given out by the great Paris physician. Dr. Hammond was sitting on the veranda of the fine new hospital, which he had just built outside the city limits, when the World correspondent called on him.

"It is true," said the doctor, "that when Dr. Brown-Sequard's discovery was first reported to the American people by the World—for it was the World that first made it known to America—I was rather dubious and inclined more or less to think as others have hinted, that either the report was a French joke or that Dr. Brown-Sequard was 'another good man gone wrong.' The first report did not give a complete idea of the treatment. It indicated, rather, that the elixir was a compound made from various glands of various animals, and on that showing I was willing to say the thing was impossible. But when I obtained further and more accurate details from the World itself and from the French medical journals, I was willing to believe that there might be something in it.

"I was willing at all events to put it to the test, and about a week ago I started to experiment. Dr. Brown-Sequard uses only selected portions of the rabbit or Guinea pig, simply because, I suppose, these are the animals upon which experiments are usually made in the French laboratories, but I have adopted the lamb, which I think, is better. The lamb, you know, is an animal that is good to eat, but we don't eat guinea pigs. The preparation of the medicine and the treatment of the patient are very simple. I take the selected portion of a lamb freshly killed and pound it into a pulp in a mortar; with this I mix a teaspoonful or two of water and the result I filter through fine Swiss filtering paper. The fluid, slightly thicker than water, comes through perfectly pure and limpid. The filtering must be carefully done, for if any shred or any part of the pulp were injected under a patient's skin it would form abscesses and do harm.

"The extract from a single lamb will be sufficient for a dozen injections. It does not matter to what part of the body the application is made, but the most convenient place is under the skin of the forearm where the skin is comparatively slack. It would hardly be safe to inject the fluid derived from a body twenty-four hours after the killing of the animal. The injection of blood and the juice of beef into wasted patients has been common for many years and it is well-known that to inject essence of decayed beef would kill the man.

"As soon as the lamb is slaughtered by the butcher no time is wasted in pounding and filtering, and within an hour of the killing of the lamb the juice is circulating through the patients veins and mingling with his blood. I began my experiments first on myself to assure myself that it was not dangerous to the patient. Since then I have applied the elixir to several old gentlemen without their knowing what it was. One man, about sixty years of age, had had his arm so nearly paralyzed with rheumatism that for nearly a year he could not raise his hand to his head. Soon after the elixir was injected into his arm he was able to wield it in any direction and almost as vigorously as he had ever done

"Up to the present my experiments have been made without my patients knowledge, but to-morrow I am going to begin treating a man in this way at his own request. Of course it is too early yet to draw any sweeping conclusions from the results obtained, but as far as I have gone the results are certainly remarkable. When I have continued my experiments longer I shall be able to draw conclusions with more confidence. Dr. Brown Sequard's calculation is that an injection once a month will suffice to keep a man twenty years younger than he really is.

A Dude's Dexterous Feat.

The other night five or six young men of the listless, self-sufficient variety so familiar just now dined in a private room at a fashionable restaurant. After cigars had been lighted one of them drawled:

"I'll bet, fellows, that I can throw this knife, and it will stick in the crack of that door every time."

He arose from the table and pointed out the narrow crack between the door and the jamb, and showed how he proposed to place the knife. The five others approached the place and cried out: "We take that bet. For how much?"

"I am to have ten throws. Each time that I fail I am to pay a ten dollar bill; if I succeed in putting the knife in the crack ten times, each of you will pay me the same sum."

The young man took his position, and, with rapidity and accuracy that words cannot describe, executed ten times in succession this remarkable feat.

When he had finished every one hurrahed with delight. Each one of his wagers being paid, he pocketed a roll of bills with a just pride.

"But how did you ever learn to do this?" asked one of the company.

Then he revealed the secret. For two or three years, having nothing pressing to do and anxious to be talked about, he had given himself up to patient practice at this work. Each morning he locked himself in his room, and, far from prying eyes, he attempted for hours to put a knife into a hole; he had to make innumerable experiments to measure the distance required, the force nescessary, and the curve, but his perseverence was invincible. At first he threw the knife into the wide mouth of a Chinese jar; then into the neck of a bottle; finally he succeeded in lodging his projectile in the narrowest opening.

And yet some people say that our dudes are good for nothing, and incumber the earth!—New York Times.

CATARRH,
Catarrhal Deafness and Hay Fever.
A NEW HOME TREATMENT.

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact and the result is that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever are permanently cured in from one to three simple applications made at home by the patient once in two weeks. N. B.—For catarrhal discharges peculiar to females (whites) this remedy is a specific. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent on receipt of ten cents by A. H. Dixon & Son, 304 West King St., Toronto, Canada.—Scientific American.
